

The Canadian Literature Centre/Centre de littérature canadienne presents...

Henry Kreisel Memorial Lecture

Now in its sixth year, this annual lecture has featured some of Canada's most talented authors, including Annabel Lyon, Eden Robinson, Dany Laferrière, Wayne Johnston and Joseph Boyden.

This year's lecture:

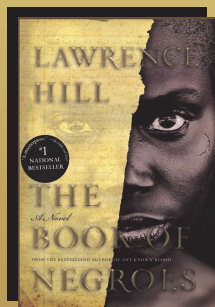

Credit: Lisa Sakulensky

by

Lawrence Hill

Tuesday, April 17, 2012 at 7:30 pm
Timms Centre for the Arts
87th Ave. & 112th St.
Edmonton, AB

Introduction by Ted Bishop. A reception & book signing will follow the lecture.
All are welcome to attend this free event. No RSVP required.

The Book of Negroes (HarperCollins Canada, 2007), Lawrence Hill's most recent and wildly successful novel, was inspired by a little known historical document of the same name. A former reporter with The Globe and Mail and The Winnipeg Free Press, Hill has also written several non-fiction pieces, including The Deserter's Tale: the Story of an Ordinary Soldier Who Walked Away from the War in Iraq (2007, co-written with Joshua Key). His award-winning writing has captured the attention of readers around the world, and his bestselling memoir, Black Berry, Sweet Juice: On Being Black and White in Canada (2001), continues to influence the discussion on racial identity in Canada today. His other novels are Some Great Thing (1992) and Any Known Blood (1997).

FACULTY OF ARTS
UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA

For more information, please visit our website, at:
www.arts.ualberta.ca/clc/

Alberta
Foundation for the Arts